The training covered important areas such as resume preparation, communication skills, aptitude and logical reasoning, group discussions, interview skills, professional etiquette, and personal presentation. Students were also guided on how to effectively introduce themselves, answer common interview questions, demonstrate confidence, and interact professionally with recruiters. Overall, the CIL Pre-Placement Training Programme was highly beneficial in enhancing students' employability, confidence, communication abilities, and interview readiness. It motivated students to prepare systematically for upcoming placement opportunities and helped bridge the gap between academic learning and industry expectations.
